COMMENTS

- The homeowner had recently completed renovations that included a new sunroom extension connecting to the garage, and was after a functional, yet visually appealing floor to cover both areas.
- The aim was to match the decor as closely as possible with a flake finish, which also included the tan-coloured driveway. After laying down large sampleboards in the area to get a better idea of what worked best, Resin Vinyl Tuscany was chosen.
- The actual installation presented some challenges due to the curvature of the slab in the new extensions making it difficult to grind by conventional means.
